WOMAN JAILED FOR ORDERING BEATING

By Julia Gregory

julia.gregory@nlhnews.co.uk

A WOMAN complicit in the brutal punishment beating of a man she put in charge of managing two cannabis factories on her behalf has been jailed.

The 31-year-old victim suffered life-threatening injuries requiring emergency surgery after being summoned to the woman's then home in Creighton Road, Tottenham, on March 15 last year. There he was subjected to a horrifically violent attack by a henchman wearing a knuckleduster who also strangled him with a belt until he lost consciousness.

Trang Pham, 39, was sentenced to 11 years in prison for conspiracy to inflict grievous bodily harm with intent when she appeared at Snaresbrook Crown Court last Wednesday. She also received seven years for conspiracy to produce cannabis and two years for possession of criminal property, to run concurrently.

She had been found guilty by a jury of all the charges at Wood Green Crown Court in October.

Her trial heard that in a group of masked men had robbed one of the cannabis factories in a residential property in Chesham, Buckinghamshire, in March 2014 stealing 110 cannabis plants.

Her other cannabis factory, in Tring, Hertford-

Prison sentence: Trang Pham

shire, was raided by police, who found 400 cannabis plants.

Pham blamed the victim for the Chesham incident and demanded he went to her Tottenham address.

When he arrived, he was led into the living room where he was attacked, initially with the knuckleduster. He was then punched and kicked and strangled with a belt sustaining significant facial and bodily injuries before being dragged unconscious to an alleyway where he was later found by residents.

The mystery man who beat him has never been traced despite a police appeal.

Detectives found Pham eight months later hiding at her new address on the Frampton Park Estate, in Hackney, east London, where they discovered £25,000 cash, the majority of which was concealed in boots on top of a kitchen unit.

During her trial Pham refused to provide evidence and claimed that she had no knowledge of and was not present during the assault.

It was also claimed that she had no knowledge that the properties were being used to produce cannabis.

Investigating officer Detective Constable Jay Abbott, from Haringey CID, said: "The length of sentence passed reflects the severity of a premeditated, sustained and vicious attack in which the victim was left with life-threatening injuries that required a number of emergency surgical procedures.

"The motive of this attack was connected to large-scale cannabis production and a prosecution was only successfully brought about due to the assistance of colleagues in Hertfordshire and Thames Valley Police."

Injunction bars man from four council offices

A MAN banned from an old people's housing scheme because of his drunken, loutish behaviour has now been barred by Haringey Council from four of its offices.

The injunction the local authority took out against Terence Thompson, of Willan Road, on the Broadwater Farm Estate, in Tottenham, in June last year, following repeated aggressive behaviour towards elderly residents of Brookside House sheltered housing scheme, in Lordship Lane, was extended last week.

The 56-year-old was served with a fresh injunction after he turned up last month at the Broadwater Farm office of Homes for Haringey – the arm's-length organisation which runs council housing – and became aggressive, telling one member of staff he was going to kill him.

He now faces being arrested if he sets foot inside the estate's community centre or reception facility as well as Wood Green or South Tottenham customer service centres. Haringey Homes is beginning eviction proceedings against him.

The council's cabinet member for communities Bernice Vanier said: "We will not tolerate threatening or abusive behaviour towards our staff or that of our partners, who have a right to do their jobs without being intimidated."

Memorial set to be restored to former glory

A TOWERING memorial to Tottenham's war dead is to be restored to its former glory after the 93-year-old landmark began showing signs of wear and tear.

The striking monument, the centrepiece of which is a 10-foot-tall bronze winged Angel of Peace statue mounted on a cenotaph of similar height, has stood since 1923 at the southern end of Tottenham Green and is a local landmark.

The Grade Two listed structure will be repaired and original features such as the York stone paving slabs restored.

It will also be cleaned and the surrounding bollards and grates and chains restored. Improvements are scheduled to be completed in the spring.

The work is part of the £1.5million regeneration of Tottenham Green, which includes the restoration of nearby Tottenham Town Hall.

Mayor of Haringey Jennifer Mann said: "It's important that we honour the men and women who have given their lives in the service of their country and the borough's war memorials play a vital part in keeping their sacrifice at the forefront of our minds."

Has last bell rung for popular pub?

By Ruth McKee

ruth.mckee@nlhnews.co.uk

A CAMPAIGNER who fought tooth and nail to save a landmark pub admits he is "very disappointed" with Enfield Council's decision to back a property redevelopment on the site in Winchmore Hill.

At a meeting of the local authority's planning committee in Enfield Civic Centre, in Silver Street, on Tuesday night last week, councillors granted permission to proposals to turn the site of the Green Dragon, at the corner of Vicars Moor Lane and Green Lanes, into a luxury housing development with a supermarket attached.

In the face of a campaign opposing the development, councillors gave the go-ahead to the plans to build seven three-storey, three-bedroom townhouses, two flats and a supermarket on the site of the pub.

Mike McClean, from Winchmore Hill, had been at the vanguard of the campaign to save the pub since it was sold to property developers last February.

Along with his wife, Sharon, he applied twice to the council for asset of community value status for the pub, which has existed on or near its current site since 1726.

However, after their second attempt failed in the autumn last year, the couple learned that the developers had submitted an application to the council which, if granted, would put an end to their plans to bring the pub back to life.

Speaking after the planning committee meeting last week, Mr McClean told the Advertiser that he was "very, very disappointed".

Mr McClean is concerned that the precedent set by the council in refusing to grant ACV status to the pub, which paved the way for the planning application to go ahead, will mean that developers will be eyeing every piece of pub real estate in the borough – hoping to get their hands on them and turn them into flats and chain supermarkets under residents' noses.

He said: "If a plot of land is worth enough money to a developer, then nowhere is safe and developers have now seen that the council won't support the community when they try and stand up to them."

On the back of these fears Mr McClean has pledged to fight for the future of other pubs in the borough, including those earmarked for closure along a stretch of Hertford Road, and he is hoping that he can help the council make it easier for people to win asset of community value status for their locals.

He added: "At the minute it seems as if the council need you to be able to prove that a pub will be of use to every single person in the community, but with the best will in the world, that can never happen."

A council spokeswoman said: "Enfield Council's current approach to evaluating ACV nominations is in line with government legislation and its decision-making process is transparent and robust."

"However, there seems to be a fundamental misunderstanding of what an ACV is and the very strict criteria that a building must satisfy before being given the benefit of this status. For example, the historic nature of a building cannot lawfully be considered in any proposed listing."

Disappointed: Mike McClean outside the Green Dragon on the corner of Vicars Moor Lane and Green Lanes

Where's Lovejoy?: Roy Goodey and Clive Cooke discuss items on display at Whitewebbs Museum of Transport on Saturday

Seek and you shall find

FORTUNE hunters hoping to discover a priceless hidden heirloom stuffed inside cardboard boxes full of odds and ends would have been disappointed.

But most visitors to an antique and collectors' fair at Whitewebbs Museum of Transport on Saturday were delighted by the vast array of curios, collectables and historic relics for sale.

The event at the museum, in Whitewebbs Lane, Enfield, was an Aladdin's Cave of antiques, knick-knacks and memorabilia with stalls crammed high with objects and items from a bygone age.

In keeping with the museum's theme of preserving vintage vehicles, there was plenty of auto memorabilia along with spare parts, tools and car manuals.

There were also ornaments, objet d'art, china and glassware, as well as a selection of old 45rpm vinyl singles, CDs and music cassettes.

"This was our first antiques fair of the season and another is being held in October," said a spokesman.

Church bells set to ring out again

By Julia Gregory

julia.gregory@nlhnews.co.uk

A CHURCH is celebrating the restoration of its 62-foot-high tower, meaning that the bells can ring out again.

Scaffolding has now been removed from the 600-year-old tower at the historic All Saints Parish Church in Edmonton, a year after the £331,000 restoration on the crumbling tower project got under way.

The project received a £216,500 grant from the National Lottery and the congregation staged a series of events to raise the rest.

Father Stuart Owen said: "We had a series of events about the history of the church."

"One of the rewarding things is it's brought a lot of people to the church who've said it's their first time in the church. It has put us on people's radar."

Centuries exposed to the elements meant some of the stone work had disintegrating.

When architect Colin Kerr visited for the church's inspection in 2009, he said: "Most significantly, the tower stonework is in poor condition, particularly at the upper levels and a major repair programme is now needed to deal with this."

The church was put on English Heritage's Buildings At Risk register in 2010 and by 2013 conservation experts noted: "Following a very bad winter, the tower stonework and roofs are now in a very poor condition."

Crumbling Kentish rag-stone was replaced and the whole of the parapet on the top of the tower was rebuilt as part of the project by restoration specialists Bakers of Danbury.

Father Owen added: "After 600 years, it got crumbly. There were bits falling off and we've had the whole tower fenced off since 2010. I'm really looking forward to the fences coming down."

Parishioner O'Dessie Mason climbed the 84 steps to inspect the restoration and said: "It looks beautiful."

Gladys Rixson said: "We were involved in the fundraising. We had quiz nights, we did all sorts of things to raise the money."

Siblings Charles and Mary Lamb, who are best known for their children's book Tales from Shakespeare, are Highly delighted: Father Stuart Owen in front of the refurbished church tower at All Saints buried in the churchyard, in Church Street.

The church is the venue for an illustrated talk tomorrow at 7.30pm.

Mr Kerr will tell the tale of "a Great West End Tower" and its restoration.

The church will also mark the tower's restoration with a day of bell ringing on Saturday, February, 27 from 10am to 5pm.

The bells were silenced during the restoration, while the scaffolding was up.

Spoken for: Some on the bikes which went on sale at the school

In the saddle for some bargain bikes

YOUNGSTERS didn't just grab bargains – they rode away on them when their school held a second-hand bike sale.

The playground of Merryhills Primary School, in Bincote Road, Enfield, resembled a used car lot, but with two-wheeled transport instead of automobiles.

There were rows of cycles which pupils and parents had generously donated, either because they had outgrown them or didn't want them any longer.

Youngsters and adults were able to pick a bike up at fraction of the cost of a new cycle as part of the Cycle Enfield scheme run by Enfield Council and the company Peddle My Wheels.

It's aim is to get more people pedalling because of the benefits to health and the environment.

Five more sales are planned at schools in the future including Alma Primary, in Alma Road, Ponders End, and Firs Farm Primary, in Rayleigh Road, Palmers Green.

The council's cabinet member for environment Daniel Anderson said: "This is a fantastic scheme. It not only allows parents and children to buy second-hand bikes at a fraction of the cost of new cycles, it's also great for parents who want to declutter and get rid of their outgrown or unwanted bicycles."

"It is a real boon for families on a limited budget and, if it proves successful, we may roll it out to even more schools."

Campaigners speak out after tragedy

By Julia Gregory

julia.gregory@nlhnews.co.uk

CAMPAIGNERS have spoken out about their road safety concerns in Enfield after a pedestrian died in a collision on the busy A10 Great Cambridge Road in Bush Hill Park.

The man, who has not yet been named by police, died after he was involved in a collision with a lorry on the southbound carriageway near the junction with Trinity Avenue at about 2.45pm on Wednesday last week.

The air ambulance was called out and landed at the playing field, beside the A10.

The man, who was thought to be 59, was treated by paramedics and an ambulance crew – but died at the scene.

An ambulance service spokeswoman said:

“Sadly, despite extensive efforts by medics at the scene to save him, a man was pronounced dead by the doctor from the air ambulance.”

The lorry driver stopped at the scene and is helping police with their inquiries. No arrests have been made.

Rosemary Mehmet, from the Save Bullsmoor Lane campaign, thought barriers could make the road safer.

A 68-year-old pedestrian died in a collision on the road in December.

“One death is too many,” she said. “If we could just get a road that’s just for industrial traffic, it would get it away from schools and pedestrians.”

Her group is calling for a road to divert M25-bound lorries from Bullsmoor Lane.

Allison Paing, from the Safer Crossing action group, which wants improvements at the crossroads at Parsonage Lane and Baker Street, in Enfield Town, said she knew the road well.

“I used to cross it to go the Edmonton County School,” she said. “A friend of mine had a broken leg after an accident there.”

She said it would be difficult to include more safety measures as the road is such a direct route to central London.

However, she added: “I don’t think there are enough speed cameras along the A10.”

Detectives from the Serious Collision Investigation Unit at Chadwell Heath are investigating and want to hear from witnesses who may not have contacted them.

Witnesses should contact the roads and transport policing command on 020 8597 4874 or Crimestoppers anonymously on 0800 555 111.

Cycle lanes consultation is extended

A PUBLIC consultation into a proposed stretch of cycle lanes in the east of the borough has been extended.

The public consultation into proposals to create a stretch of partially segregated cycle lanes along Hertford Road was due to end last week on February 12.

However, the closing date has now been extended for more than a month and residents keen to have their say on the scheme will have until March 20 to complete the consultation.

The proposals, which are accessible via www.cycleenfield.co.uk, include a radical redesign of the Edmonton Green roundabout.

The proposed plans for the roundabout would see cyclists completely separated from all motor traffic.

They would have their own two-way cycle path around the edges of the roundabout, protecting them from the buses travelling to and from the bus station and from the HGVs travelling north and south along the road.

The plans for the road, from the Edmonton Green roundabout all the way south along the road to the junction with the North Circular, include the same partially segregated cycle lanes which will be separated from motor traffic by low rubber buffers, rather than the full protection for cyclists offered by the cycle superhighways in central London. Bus stop boarders, which caused such concern elsewhere the borough where they feature in plans for the Green Lanes cycle scheme, are also included.

These are redesigned bus stops with a bus moving into the cycle lane and passengers getting off directly in the path of cyclists, with the expectation that cyclists will stop and wait for the time it takes for passengers to get on and off a bus.

The boarders proved controversial in earlier consultations, with residents and some cyclists expressing the fear that they are not safe as they leave vulnerable bus users, children and those with disabilities, in the path of cyclists who may be too impatient to wait for them to clear the way.

Cyclists have also expressed concerns that buses competing with them for road space will lead to increased chance of a collision between double deckers and cyclists.

'I'll do whatever I can,' MP assures teacher's family

Burrowes pledges support to safety campaign

By Ruth McKee

ruth.mckee@nlhnews.co.uk

AN MP has pledged to do all he can to help a grieving Winchmore Hill family launch a campaign to alert people to the dangers of carbon monoxide poisoning.

David Burrowes, the MP for Enfield Southgate, is the constituency MP of Mark and Chrissy Dingley, whose daughter Francesca died from carbon monoxide poisoning just weeks after arriving in the Cheng Du province of China to teach English to schoolchildren in February last year.

Last week this paper reported on the launch of their campaign set up in the wake of their daughter's death to make people travelling abroad aware of the dangers of carbon monoxide poisoning.

The MP, whose eldest daughter went to the same primary school and secondary school as Francesca, has taken a personal interest in the campaign and is embarking on an intensive lobbying exercise in a bid to get the government to change the advice issued to travellers, as well as changing regulations around the level of care organisations that employ British young people abroad must provide.

Francesca, of Hadley Way, who was 22 and is former pupil of Dame Alice Owen's School, in Potters Bar, was working for an English First language school at the time of her death.

The school she was employed by was not directly run by the company, but rather its Chinese franchise, and when school managers checked the accommodation they were providing for their employees the inquiry into the tragedy established they had only carried out a cursory check and had not ensured all appliances in the flat were safe.

Mr Burrowes said: "My oldest daughter is studying primary school teaching at the moment and as part of her studies she will be spending a year abroad. I want to make sure that young people like Francesca, like my daughter, are not put at risk by the companies who use their talents and goodwill."

"That means getting the government to take action on this because as well as encouraging people to bring portable carbon monoxide detectors with them when they travel, we need to know that companies meet the same safety requirements that they would have to in this country."

Mr Burrowes's approach to getting the government to take action on the issue will include setting up a meeting between the Dingley family and a representative from the Foreign Office.

He will then approach the all-party parliamentary group on carbon monoxide poisoning and ask them to hear evidence from Francesca's parents.

Ultimately, he hopes to table a debate on the issue in the House of Commons.

Happy to help: Enfield Southgate MP David Burrowes is getting behind a campaign aimed at highlighting the danger of carbon monoxide poisoning in the wake of the tragic death of 22-year-old Francesca Dingley. Inset and, top, with parents Mark and Chrissy

Magistrates on the move as court is marked for closure

By Julia Gregory

julia.gregory@nlhnews.co.uk

THE building which houses Enfield magistrates' court will close next year.

The decision has been announced by the government's Courts and Tribunals Service as a cost-cutting measure which will see the closure of 86 of the 460 courts in England and Wales.

The closures are predicted to save £27million.

It cost £340,000 to run the court, in Lordship Lane, Tottenham, last year, said a government report. It said the court was used to just 22 per cent of its capacity.

The building will shut between April and June next year and hearings will be transferred to Highbury Corner magistrates' court in Islington.

One barrister who responded to the consultation said: "Highbury is run like a factory with overloaded lists. I can only see that getting worse if you shut Tottenham."

The closure was opposed by seven of the ten consultation respondents, with two in favour.

Among alternative suggestions were moving the court to Enfield Civic Centre, in Silver Street, the Dugdale Centre, in London Road, Enfield Town, or Edmonton County Court, in Fore Street.

In its response to the consultation, the Courts and Tribunals Service said it had "considered the travel times users will experience, particularly those attending court from the London boroughs of Ponders End and Edmonton (SIC) for council tax hearings".

However, the times were not deemed "excessive".

The service also said: "It is further noted that although significant numbers of council tax summonses are issued each month, a large proportion result in an out-of-court settlement and less than one per cent over a 10-month period for this year resulted in an adjournment."

Alternative ways of conducting business for people who would find it difficult to travel to a court elsewhere would be considered.

The report added: "It is noted that users attending Tottenham magistrates' court are drawn from some of the most deprived and vulnerable sections of the community."

"It is acknowledged and accepted that some people will need to travel further to reach their nearest court and for some the journey, if made by public transport, may be over an hour – for the majority of people the closure will have little impact."

"We are mindful of the infrequency with which people need to attend court and the small proportion of people who would use public transport to reach court."

The government's justice minister Shailesh Vara said: "The decision to close a court is never taken lightly, but in the digital age I am confident we have measures in place to ensure access to justice is not diminished."

Do you know the story behind these photos?

TRADERS are hoping to solve a mystery by reuniting a bundle of cherished family photos found in the market square in Enfield Town with the owner who lost them.

The collection of 13 photos feature a man called Aziz and family snaps.

Six names were written on the outside of the envelope they were found in. These include Elif, Mustaffa and George.

The bundle of memories is being cared for by the Old Enfield Charitable Trust, which is withholding the names of the other three to try and ensure the pictures are returned to their rightful owner.

The bundle also included 16 undeveloped negatives featuring a barbecue party, complete with cake, along with £40 in cash.

Susan Foss, from the Old Enfield Charitable Trust, said: "We think the lady is from the Turkish community. The packet include a poem and one of our traders has translated it for us."

She added: "One of the greengrocers found the packet on the ground by his stall just before Christmas. We've tried to track down the owner, but without any success yet. It's really sad because these pictures are obviously really important to their owner."

On the back of one of the pictures dated November 2011, the author of a caption noted: "I am 63 and Dominik is 41 years old."

Another shot is of a present which was bought by Aziz and which the caption writer said they still owned 18 years later.

In one photo it appears that a group of family members or friends has got together. They include Aziz, Elif and Sadik, according to the caption writer.

Anyone who recognises the woman in the picture or can help return the packet to its owner should contact the trust on 020 8367 8941.

Retired teacher fears for future of libraries

By Ruth McKee

ruth.mckee@nlhnews.co.uk

STUDENTS and young people will be hardest hit by library closures in the borough, according to a former teacher.

Michael Hardyman, of Landseer Road, Bush Hill Park, is a retired physics teacher and a regular user of the John Jackson Library, in Agricola Place, off Main Avenue, Bush Hill Park.

Since December the 58-year-old has witnessed a series of changes which he fears mark the beginning of the end of the library.

Although he cannot get clear answers from the local authority on the issue, he now understands that Eldon Primary School, in Edmonton, has taken over the running of the library as the council aims to scale back its investment in local libraries.

He told the Advertiser that the music room in the library has been closed since before Christmas and a study and IT area, where he used to see GCSE students revising, has also been closed off, meaning library users now have no tables for independent work, reading or study.

"Not only are there no desks for studying, but the opening times on Saturdays have been slashed to just a few hours in the morning," he said.

"From what I understand, Saturday afternoons were the most popular time for GCSE students to revise, but where are they going to go now?"

"Our library can provide a child's first experience of being a citizen, of belonging to something, taking a advantage of a public service and having responsibilities."

He warned: "Downgrading John Jackson is short-sighted and will be very damaging for our community."

Last week it was reported that the council was seeking applications from private organisations to run five libraries in the borough, while insisting that no libraries were being "closed".

An Enfield Council spokeswoman said: "The council is one of the few local authorities in London which has kept all their libraries open in these tough economic times and we are committed to a comprehensive library service that meets the needs of the community."

"In order to meet these needs we are pursuing a range of options for our libraries including co-location with other parties which provide opportunities for services to be brought together at a local level and offer more space for the voluntary and community sector."

□ See letter – page 10.

Volunteers lined up to deliver books to homes

VOLUNTEERS have been recruited to deliver library books, CDs and DVDs to people who are not able to get out and about to their libraries.

The move follows Enfield Council's consultation about the future of libraries across the borough.

Part of its plan included increasing the number of volunteers from 60 to 150.

The home delivery service has been extended after the mobile library services were cut after the council said it was under-used at its 16 venues around the borough.

Helpers from the Royal Voluntary Service have teamed up with the council to deliver spoken word books, along with CDs, books and DVDs from the library collection.

The council hopes it will "build on" the work already done by the delivery service, which paid visits to 280 residents every four weeks.

Heather James, the RVS operations manager, visited Enfield Town Library, in Church Street, with her team to launch the new service on Wednesday last week.

She said the RVS was working with a number of councils to provide voluntary services.

"Volunteers for this Enfield library service will each be responsible for up to ten people," she said.

She said the volunteers would talk to the vulnerable or housebound residents they would be helping to find out about their tastes.

"They prepare deliveries and find out about their clients' reading, viewing and listening preferences," she added.

She said that the visits would make a difference to people who received items from the library.

The council's cabinet member with responsibility for libraries Ayfer Orhan said: "We know that people of all ages, who for many reasons are unable to get to their local library, appreciate the service."

She said that the home visits offered a social dimension, especially for residents living alone who might have few visitors.

The volunteers would drop by every four weeks with a variety of items the residents could borrow from the service, she added.

FAMILY ANNOUNCEMENTS

Diamond couple celebrate 60th wedding anniversary

ANNE-MARIE SANDERSON

By Julia Gregory

julia.gregory@nlhnews.co.uk

A COUPLE whose ruby wedding anniversary 20 years ago was made memorable by Princess Diana are to celebrate their diamond wedding anniversary on Friday.

The princess gave Leslie Cohen a fiver to buy his wife Mary a bunch of flowers for their 40th anniversary after he picked her up in his taxi outside the Portland Hospital, in central London, a year before she died.

Leslie, now 82, recalls: "She was visiting cricketer Imran Khan and I took her the 20-minute journey to Kensington Palace. She was telling me about visiting Imran Khan and I told her it was my 40th wedding anniversary.

"She gave me £5 and told me to buy my wife some flowers. She was quite chatty all the way. She was one of my favourite passengers."

The couple, from Cavell Drive, Enfield, will mark the milestone of 60 years of marriage with a party for close family and friends. They wed in Stamford Hill in 1956 after meeting at a dance in Tottenham Court Road.

They began married life in Green Lanes before moving to homes in Palmers Green and Southgate.

Just after their honeymoon they won the Beat the Clock contest on the Sunday Night at the London Palladium show hosted by Tommy Trinder.

The couple faced a tough challenge juggling cups and saucers, but

Celebrating 60 years of marriage: Mary and Leslie Cohen triumphed and won £800. Leslie says: "I've still got the original cheque.

"We did cash it and they sent the cheque back. We spent it on a television and other things for our home." Although it was televised, the couple have never been able to find a copy of the broadcast.

Leslie worked as a tailor and his wife was a secretary for Philips Electrical, in Shaftesbury Avenue, and at Royal Sovereign, near where Arsenal's Emirates Stadium is now located, before devoting herself to caring for their children Lynn, Simone and Adrian.

Eventually, Leslie decided to retrain as a taxi driver while continuing with his day job.

He spent his spare time on the London roads and memorised routes to tackle the gruelling Knowledge test before he could earn his licence.

He said: "If my wife had not supported me, it would have been quite difficult."

He retired as a cabbie when he was 80.

Leslie and his teammates from Arnos Bowling Club, in Arnos Park, won a place in the Guinness Book of Records in 2002 for playing bowls non-stop for 36 hours.

The record has since been broken.

Mary, who is 83, said it was tough when her husband was out studying for The Knowledge, but added: "We always got on well. There were times when we disagreed, but it was a tough time. We each do our own thing when we want to, but we do things together."

The couple enjoy bridge and go swimming at Southgate Leisure Centre, in Winchmore Hill Road.

They have asked family and friends not to give them gifts and make a donation instead to Asthma UK in memory of their granddaughter Alexandra, who died 15 years ago via <https://www.justgiving.com/Leslie-and-Mary-Cohen/>

NEWS

In the spotlight: MP Kate Osamor, inset, claimed there is growing crisis in care following the death of a patient waiting for treatment at the accident and emergency department at North Middlesex University Hospital, in Edmonton

MP's claims put hospital bosses on the defensive

Osamor alleges 'growing crisis' after patient's death

By Ruth McKee

ruth.mckee@nlhnews.co.uk

HOSPITAL chiefs have defended themselves against accusations from an MP that there is a growing crisis in emergency care in the borough.

Kate Osamor, the Labour MP for Edmonton, and the junior shadow minister for women and equalities, spoke out in parliament over an incident last year when a patient died in accident and emergency.

In a question to health minister Alistair Burt, she referred to a report which suggested that the patient's death was a result of a failing A&E department, asking: "Can the minister tell me how the government are urgently going to tackle safety of care at North Middlesex Hospital following revelations that a patient died in December 2015 after being forced to wait an unacceptable amount of time in A&E?"

The response from the minister acknowledged that "work had to be done to improve the quality of care in A&E" across the country.

A spokesman from North Middlesex University Hospital, in Sterling Way, Edmonton, said that the death of the patient in December was under investigation and a full report into the circumstances surrounding the death would be published in March.

Mr Burt added that since July 2015 only 66 per cent of patients have been seen within the government target of treating most patients within four hours of their arrival at hospital.

The hospital spokesman chalked this up to the fact that the A&E department is short of staff as it is five consultants down with only nine of 14 senior emergency medicine posts filled.

In the run-up to the closure of the accident and emergency department at Chase Farm Hospital, in The Ridgeway, Enfield, in 2013, patient groups warned of the dangers of putting more strain on North Middlesex, which now has the only A&E department in the borough.

Ms Osamor said: "I was determined to ask a question on North Middlesex Hospital following revelations in a report produced by Haringey CCG that a patient had died at the hospital as a result of waiting too long in A&E."

"The situation at North Middlesex A&E is an urgent one which must drastically improve."

"The department is of central importance to the area, particularly following the closure of Chase Farm A&E and the comparatively low level of access to GP primary care services in comparison to other areas nationally."

"I will continue to press the government on this matter."

She is not the first MP from the borough to speak out about waiting times at the hospital.

In 2014, David Burrowes, Conservative MP for Enfield Southgate, talked of his ordeal after waiting for 12 hours on a trolley with a ruptured appendix before he was taken for tests.

The spokesman from North Middlesex added: "Patient safety is always our number one priority. We are working hard to address the challenges we currently face in our A&E department, which is one of the busiest in London."

"We have been open and honest about the issues and have been working closely with other NHS organisations, local partners and patient representatives to make significant improvements since concerns were first identified last year."

Cloudy2Clear Announce Trusted Trader Partnership

Consumer champions

Which? have now joined the thousands of customers who recognise that Cloudy2Clear Windows really are a business that you can TRUST. The company which specialises in repairing windows which are steamed up, broken or damaged by replacing the panes – not the frames has received the coveted 'Which? Trusted Trader' status after going through a rigorous accreditation process entirely focussed on customer service.

Group Managing Director Marcus McGee believes that Which? have endorsed Cloudy2Clear's long standing company policy of delivering the highest standards possible at all times. "Our service is simple. If your double glazing has misted up we can replace the glass at a fraction of the cost of a new window, in any type of frame, and with a new 10 year guarantee."

But it's not just about saving people money, although that obviously helps. Whilst a number of tradespeople perhaps don't focus on customer care as much as they should do, we make sure we turn up when we say we will, do the job the customer requires and leave their house as clean as a whistle.

Locally Cloudy2Clear service the Enfield, Edmonton, Palmers Green, Winchmore Hill & Southgate areas and manager Richard Power agrees that this approach is a major factor in his success. "The truth is that it's not just the personal satisfaction that I get from doing a good job but also it makes good business sense. I get a huge amount of business from friends and family of people I've done work for, which just goes to show how much a little bit of effort is appreciated as both my customers and, obviously a body as nationally important as Which? now recognise."

So, if your windows are steamed up, broken or damaged give Richard a call for a free quotation on 0800 61 21 118 and he'll be happy to help!

Wrong to say we kept quiet

AS chairman of the Bowes-Southgate Green ward forum held on February 3, I must correct an inaccuracy in the account published in your paper by Green politico David Flint ("Find out what's needed first", Advertiser, February 10, 2016).

Referring to the community hub that Labour councillors have been fighting for at Ritz Parade on the North Circular, Mr Flint pretends we were "silent" and "careful not to ask residents" what they want. This is totally false, alarmingly so seeing as Mr Flint himself participated in the discussions we organised that evening about the non-residential amenities our constituents prioritise for this site – first and foremost being a doctor's surgery, a vision to which we wholeheartedly subscribe.

It is one thing for Mr. Flint to highlight the real challenges that residents and councillors, working together, face in achieving certain outcomes with privately owned land. It is another for him to create divisions where none exist.

Councillor Alan Sitkin
Bowes Ward

Listen to the residents...

COUNCILLOR George Savva failed to listen to the debate. Terry Neville, Michael Lavender and I made clear in our speeches at the council meeting that cross-party support for the Cycle Enfield bid was essential or the bid would not be considered.

Had the Conservative opposition not supported the bid for some £30million, doubtless he and his colleagues would have roundly criticised us.

The bid was jointly submitted only on the basis that all the proposals within the bid would be subject to public consultation and would need to command public support.

The Labour administration should listen to what residents say and either amend Cycle Enfield to command business and public support or drop the scheme.

It seems our MP does not take concerns of junior doctors over contract dispute seriously

REGARDING the junior doctors' contract dispute – David Burrowes, the MP for Enfield Southgate, met me and some junior doctor colleagues in November 2015 to discuss concerns regarding the government's contract offer.

For a period of more than two months following this meeting he failed to reply to my correspondence concerning this matter and specifically about what the government actually means by a "seven-day NHS", given that emergency services (of which junior doctors are an integral part) already run seven days a week.

Since Jeremy Hunt's announcement last Thursday that he intends to impose a contract on junior doctors, Mr Burrowes has written to me to say that he is satisfied with the government's proposed changes.

To me this indicates that he does not take seriously the concerns of the medical professionals and the many worried patients in his constituency and that he is willing to collaborate in the destruction of the NHS for private gain.

These 'consultations' are a complete sham

IN the library development plan consultation questionnaire which was circulated in December 2014, Councillor Ayfer Orhan wrote: "This consultation proposes an exciting future role for libraries which underlines their importance, the opportunities they create and ensures they remain a valued part of local life".

In reality, the changes which have taken place at the John Jackson Library, Bush Hill Park, since December have been wholly negative and have more in common with rundown and closure than development.

We are very concerned that the situation will get much worse in April when the salaried staff who have worked so hard to make the library such a friendly and welcoming place are no longer with us.

If there was a genuine determination to ensure a better library service in Enfield for the next 20 years, planning would have included input from library users and taken into account the experience of other London boroughs.

In Lewisham, the "community" model relying on volunteers has been a catastrophic failure. In Brent, the council has simply closed libraries completely to save money. Libraries do not seem to be valued by central or local government and are seen as an easy target for financial cuts.

This is a very short-sighted view as the John Jackson is about far more than books.

It is a vital centre of support for the residents of the Avenues Estate and Ayley Croft and through its IT facilities an essential link to all the services and opportunities available online.

The libraries crisis has also raised the issue of honesty, transparency and good governance.

In three cases now the present administration has used "consultations" to support its planned changes to libraries, the local studies centre and Cycle Enfield (mini Holland).

These consultations have been recognised as a sham by residents – a waste of time and money as in each case the council's cabinet had already decided on its course of action and gone ahead regardless of opposition.

Don't leave people out in the cold

HUNDREDS of thousands of Londoners are being left in the cold as the Mayor of London woefully missed his insulation targets.

Only five per cent of the 1.7 million London homes that should have had loft and cavity wall insulation fitted by now have benefited from these home retrofit measures.

It's mockery of our efforts to lift the one in ten London households out of fuel poverty with cold draughty homes and high energy bills. It's also a serious blow to tackling climate change, which poses the biggest threat to our health and economic well-being.

There are two critical factors behind this – Boris Johnson's deep-rooted views dismissing the overwhelming scientific evidence showing carbon emissions are driving global warming; and a complacent government.

Instead of fixing the national Green Deal energy retrofit programme, they scrapped it with no replacement.

Let us hope that the next mayor takes fuel poverty and climate change more seriously.

There is just no need for a new school in this location

ENFIELD RoadWatch is a very active residents' group fighting to protect its local green belt from development, but our members have reacted with disbelief to the tactics being employed by the Wren Academy to squeeze a large secondary free school into fields, right next to a successful existing school, all against the wishes of the community.

The Wren has tried to hijack Enfield's Local Plan consultation by asking residents to respond in favour of their scheme to develop on green belt land.

Enfield RoadWatch is astounded that the Wren has flown in the face of the community's clear expression of resistance to any development on green belt.

Only last November more than 5,000 residents signed a petition to save the site and it was then presented to councillors at Enfield's full council meeting.

Enfield RoadWatch is in no way opposed to secondary school provision. Many of our members have young families and want quality education facilities.

And they mostly feel they already have them in the excellent schools close by in western Enfield.

No new school is required at this time according to Enfield Council's recent assessment. So the Wren is pressing for a new school for its own purposes, not in the interests of local families.

When the time comes to expand provision, we want to work with the council to identify what's in the best interests of the residents and locality.

If additional places become necessary in west Enfield, expanding established local schools would be an obvious first step and that must be worked through.

Communities are vital and when they express their preferences so clearly as ours we look to the Wren, the London Diocese, the Education Funding Agency and Enfield Council to be suitably guided.

Attention: DENTURE WEARERS

If you are a denture wearer then this article may be of some interest to you!!
If you can relate to any of the following questions then it is a sign your denture needs attention:

DO YOU FIND YOUR DENTURES:

- Do not fit as well on your gums as they used to?
- Are they loose?
- Do not cut food as well as they used to?
- Do they make your face look older?
- Have discoloured despite meticulous cleaning or
- Cause discomfort/pain on chewing?

If any of the above breeds familiar territory then I may be able to alleviate some of these problems for you.

My name is Caroline Persaud I am a qualified CLINICAL DENTAL TECHNICIAN. Many of you may be aware of Dental Technicians/Mechanics who repair and produce dentures for dentists, however, due to recent changes in the Dental law, a group of Dental Care Professionals known as Clinical Dental Technicians have been approved by the General Dental Council and can now see denture wearers who have no natural teeth remaining, directly without having to visit a dentist.

The advantages to you, the patients, are numerous. You can be treated by a professional who has been clinically trained to undertake the impressions of your mouth and who also has the technical skill to manufacture your denture to meet your requirements.

A more direct, rapid and personalised service, that can be delivered to you in the comfort of your own home or at my day clinic in Edmonton.

If you wish to discuss any denture related issues please do not hesitate to contact me on:

You've got to be in it to win it...

Get those nominations in for £1,000 charity competition

DOES your charity have a project on the backburner that you'd like to get off the ground if funds were available?

Or do you know of a deserving cause which could do with a helping hand?

We've teamed up with mobile phone provider Vodafone to offer worthy causes in Enfield the chance to win a £1,000 grant.

The nationwide Vodafone Community Connection Awards offers a boost to projects run by charities in the community.

Judges will pick the charity they think most deserves the money – but hurry the deadline is just over two weeks away, at 4pm on Thursday March 3.

Nominees already include Enfield Disability Action, which is based in Fore Street Edmonton, and is run for and by disabled people of all ages.

It offers a range of help, including advocacy to help people understand their rights, help in independent living and a support group which is run by the charity's volunteers as a drop-in for people living with cancer.

It also offers support for profoundly deaf and hard of hearing people in Enfield.

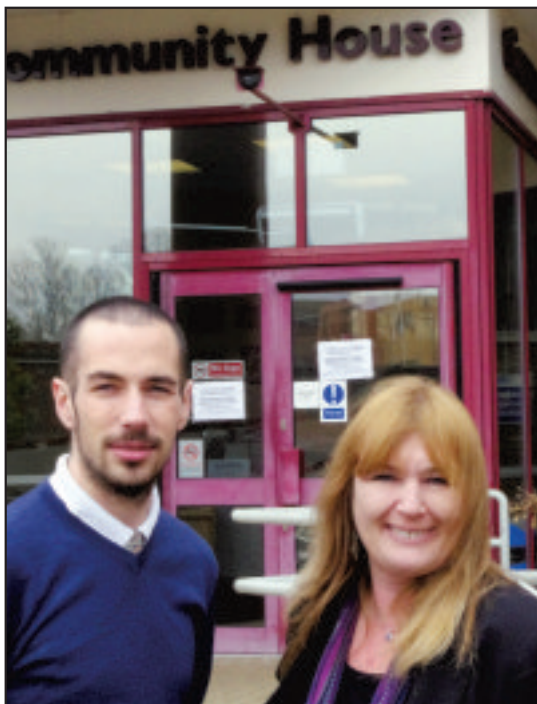

The charity also serves as a hate crime and safeguarding reporting centre.

Enfield Disability Action's chief executive Liane Burn said: "Initiatives such as the one Vodafone is taking forward are very welcome and donations such as this can help groups like EDA to continue to provide support to our members and service users."

Our judges want to hear about other deserving causes you think could benefit from £1,000.

Mohammed Uddin, the Vodafone store manager in Church Street, Enfield Town, is looking forward to hearing about your nominations.

He said: "We're delighted to team up with the Enfield Advertiser to offer a Vodafone

In the running: Aaron Dryden and Liane Burn, who share the CEO role at Enfield Disability Action

Community Connection Award in Enfield. We're keen to play our part as members of the local community and we know there are some really deserving causes out there, working hard to make a difference – we hope they will put themselves forward."

It could be a project helping the homeless or a Scout group which needs new uniforms or a sports group which is in desperate need of new equipment.

To be eligible to be considered groups must fulfil the following criteria:

□ They must be a local charity, with a registered charity number, which has a significant impact on the community in Enfield.

□ They must have a specific project or purpose they want to spend the money on, rather than using it for running costs.

□ The money must be standalone and not be used as part of a bigger appeal.

The award cannot be for an individual or for a government-funded group, such as a school.

Enfield Advertiser editor Mick Ferris said: "Charities throughout the Enfield borough play a vital role within our community and we are delighted to be involved in an initiative which will offer one of them a big, thoroughly deserved financial boost."

Send your nominations to competitions@nlhnews.co.uk with "Vodafone" in the subject line or to Vodafone Community Connection Award, North London & Herts Newspapers, 187 Baker Street, Enfield, EN1 3JT.

Name of accident victim confirmed

THE victim of a fatal traffic collision has been named.

Rodney Lewis, 84, of Enfield, died after he was involved in a collision on the eastbound side of the A406 North Circular Road at the junction of Colney Hatch Lane at about 10.40am on Wednesday, February 3.

Police believe Mr Lewis had been driving a Hyundai when he stopped to help the driver of a broken-down black Ford Fiesta which had stopped. A third car, a black VW Passat, collided with the Hyundai, which then collided with the Ford Fiesta.

Mr Lewis was pronounced dead at the scene.

A 77-year-old woman who was a passenger in the Hyundai was rushed to a north London hospital where she remains in a serious but stable condition. Police have arrested a 51-year-old woman, the driver of the Passat, on suspicion of causing death by dangerous driving and serious injury by dangerous driving. She has been bailed to a date in May.

Witnesses are requested to call the Serious Collision Investigation Unit on 020 8991 9555.

Marketplace's first pancake race is flipping good fun...

Victorious: Garry Kousoulou, centre, and the rest of the winning team; left, contestants race round the St Andrew's churchyard section of the course

A TEAM from an opticians and a social media company battered the opposition in a pancake race around Enfield town centre.

The event was arranged by the Old Enfield Charitable Trust, which runs the historic Enfield market.

Contestants had to flip their pancakes before passing the frying pan over to the next member of their relay team as they sprinted round the course in the marketplace and St Andrew's churchyard.

It's the first year that the trust has staged the race raising funds for deserving causes in Enfield.

The winning team completed the course in 37 seconds.

Team captain Garry Kousoulou, from Good Looking Optics, in Genotin Road, was joined by Thegz Savvides and Jamie Molseed, from neighbouring business Loving Social Media, and work experience students Alex Weekes and Nishat Begum.

The prize for the winning team were pancakes made with their favourite topping.

The other teams were from the Royal Bank of Scotland, Valley Lofts, MC Marketing and the market traders.

Mark Mead, from Valley Lofts, which is based in Elizabeth Avenue, Enfield, said: "I think it's good to do something for charity."

Organiser Ellie Gill said: "I'd like this to be an annual event to raise money for the trust and get the community involved."

Pan-tastic: David Burrowes

...and MP is on the winning team

ENFIELD Southgate MP David Burrowes flipped his way to glory with a team of fellow politicians.

Mr Burrowes and five other MPs won the annual Rehab Parliamentary Pancake Race in Victoria Park Gardens, in Westminster, last week, beating teams from the House of Lords and the media.

The teams had to complete nine laps of the gardens while tossing their pancakes.

The victory will serve as some consolation to Mr Burrowes, who lost out, yet again, on winning the coveted Westminster Dog of the Year contest in the autumn.

Funds raised from the event go towards Rehab's brain injury centres in Birmingham and Newcastle while members of the public can donate £5 by texting PANC16 £5 to 70070.

Trust signals intent to enforce contracts

'No plans' to refuse implementation of Hunt plan

Making their point: Junior doctors were on picket line outside Chase Farm Hospital last week the day before Secretary of State for Health Jeremy Hunt said he was prepared to enforce controversial new contract arrangements

ruth.mckee@nlhnews.co.uk

THE foundation trust which runs one of the borough's hospital's has no plans to refuse to implement the new junior doctors' contract.

In the wake of the strike by doctors under consultant level in England on Wednesday last week, it emerged that hospitals with foundation trust status (such as Chase Farm, in The Ridgeway, Enfield, which is run by the Royal Free) have the power to negotiate their own settlement with junior doctors.

Last week's strike was called after the British Medical Association rejected Secretary of State for Health Jeremy Hunt's demands, which it says, doctors must work an increased number of antisocial hours for less money.

Despite reports that hospital trusts' refusal to force the new contract on their doctors could scupper the government's plans, a spokeswoman from the Royal Free London NHS Foundation Trust, told the Advertiser: "We believe that the contract offered is reasonable and are disappointed that agreement has not been reached at a national level.

"The trust awaits further details of proposals for implementation and, as in the case of every other staff group, has no plans to negotiate alternative local arrangements."

Last week's strike saw five operations cancelled at Chase Farm.

The trust issued a statement last week pledging that patient safety was not compromised in any way by the industrial action.

In the statement, the Royal Free said: "We have put plans in place to enable us to deliver safe services for patients during the strike action. All emergency services, including our A&E departments and urgent care centres, will run as normal."

North Middlesex University Hospital in Sterling Way, Edmonton, was also affected by the strike with all doctors under consultant level working solely in emergency situations.

Pensioner treated in hospital following unprovoked attack

A THUG who carried out an unprovoked attack on a 75-year-old man at an Edmonton bus stop is being hunted by police.

The victim is recovering in hospital with head and facial injuries following the assault on Thursday evening at 9.20pm.

His condition is described as stable. He had been waiting at the Angel Corner bus stop, in Fore Street.

The suspect, who appeared to be acting in an erratic manner and engaging with other people waiting at the stop, then approached the man and knocked him to the ground before running off.

The suspect is believed to be aged about 25 and is about 6ft 6ins tall, with a slim build and dark hair, and was wearing a black jacket and blue jeans.

Anyone with information is being asked to call Enfield CID on 020 8345 3311 or via the non-emergency number 101.

Alternatively, Crimestoppers can be contacted anonymously on 0800 555 111.

Moving example of performance theatre

Complex choreography:
Tanz Theatre at Sadler's Wells

Como el Musquito Sadler's Wells

THE rhythms of Latin American folk songs, slow and soft jazz melodies and melancholy songs provide the soundtrack for Pina Bausch's final work, Como el Musquito, which she developed in Chile and was premiered just three weeks before her death from breast cancer in 2009.

Throughout the later half of the 20th century the German choreographer forged a new brand of contemporary dance, based on her interpretations of the teachings of Kurt Joss and Rudolf Laban.

Using dancers across the spectrum of age, experience, and background she became known for weaving theatrical moments of abstract dialogue and stylised performance into her flowing and ambitious choreography and in this, her final piece, she returns to her signature motifs and themes. Dancers in skyscraper high heels and long, lavish gowns sweep across the stage with moments of comedy and levity interspersed throughout the performance which at times clinically pulls apart the dynamics of relationships.

A repeated motif of a dancer's arm wheeling through the air to be met with eager kisses from an ardent admirer is a sweet moment of seemingly straightforward flirtatiousness among a series of more meditative and sadder solos where the sumptuous floor length dresses and long hair worn loose mesmerise the audience as much as the complex choreography.

While the theatricality of her earlier work remains and the performers are marked by the delicacy and subtlety of their acting, in this piece she made while unaware of the cancer aggressively attacking her body, the energy and physicality of the choreography is striking, with more emphasis given to sheer beauty of movement than in earlier works.

But sudden moments of uncomfortable allusions stop the piece from descending into cutesy quirks with a female dancer clinging to a long poll which is wheeled in a circle through the space, conjuring images of brutally breaking-in horses and training animals – an image which is reinforced when she is bound by a rope and struggles against her bindings.

The dancers relentlessly carve up the space and with the wit and tenderness displayed throughout they show that in her final months Bausch's creative drive and energy was perhaps at its most powerful.

Ruth McKee

Como el Musquito ran at Sadler's Wells from February 11 to 14. Information on future performances can be found on www.sadlerswells.com

Young, free and single-minded

HOW TO BE SINGLE (15, 110 mins)

LOOKING for love, companionship or a welcoming port in a carnal storm couldn't be simpler in a 24-hour digital age of competing apps and online dating services.

You no longer have to practise chat-up lines or reject potential suitors face to face. A casual swipe of a touchscreen relegates unsuitable matches to the scrapheap while an array of winks, woofs, whistles and growls alerts the lucky few to your piqued interest.

Based on the book of the same name by Liz Tucillo, Christian Ditter's raucous comedy drama follows a group of hapless and hopeless romantics in New York City as they stumble between one-night stands, missed opportunities and chance liaisons.

It's a glossy and sporadically hilarious portrait of sleeping around in the city that never sleeps, populated by attractive and wealthy people who spend the best part of two hours vacillating about affairs of the heart when commonsense dictates they would be inundated with offers.

Perky heroine Alice (Dakota Johnson) meets her boyfriend Josh (Nicholas Braun) at college, but worries that the relationship has curtailed her journey of self-discovery.

"We needed to know what it's like to be single...at least once," she tells her heart-broken beau, enforcing their temporary separation by moving to the Big Apple, where she crashes with her sister Meg (Leslie Mann), a pediatric doctor immune to the charms of gurgling toddlers.

Alice lands a plum job as a paralegal at a top firm, where she is befriended by spirited fellow employee Robin (Rebel Wilson).

Pals: Alice (Dakota Johnson) and Robin (Rebel Wilson)

The gal pals join forces in their pursuit of handsome bed partners, snagging barman Tom (Anders Holm) and widower David (Damon Wayans Jr), who is fiercely protective of his young daughter Phoebe (Zani Jones Mbayise).

Meanwhile, Meg is caught off-guard by a charming younger suitor, Ken (Jake Lacy), and commitment phobe Tom develops an infuriating crush on one of his customers, Lucy (Alison Brie).

How To Be Single stomps over similar ground to the 2009 romcom He's Just Not That Into You, also based on a book by Tucillo, and is peppered with the usual array of heartbreaks and gushing declarations, underscored by a toe-tapping soundtrack of Taylor Swift, Guns N' Roses and Avicii.

Johnson is a likeable, if slightly bland, dreamer, not too far removed from her little girl lost in Fifty Shades Of Grey, while Wilson injects madcap comic energy including various ad-libs that elicit the occasional belly laugh. Her potty-mouthed riffs in a sauna scene are a particular treat.

Ditter skips merrily back and forth between the different characters, drizzling closing scenes with emotional syrup, so even the unlucky in love are ridiculously fortunate in life.

Luck be a sex-crazed single lady.

EARLY SALES SUCCESS AT FLORIAN HOUSE, N11

Following the unveiling of the much awaited Florian House show apartment in New Southgate, N11, boutique London developer, Fruition Properties has announced that over fifty percent of the apartments are now reserved. Situated in an exclusive gated setting, Florian House presents an exciting opportunity for first time buyers to get onto the property ladder, with remaining apartments from just £445,000. The recently launched London Help to Buy scheme is available.

Florian House comprises seven one, two and three bedroom apartments and two four bedroom houses. Today only three apartments remain unreserved. Designed to an exacting specification, the new homes include contemporary kitchens with integrated Bosch appliances, under floor heating, high quality WCs and basins by Duravit, recessed ceiling speakers and Sensio LED feature lighting. The development benefits from landscaped gardens and secure parking, while a number of the apartments benefit from private terraces and balconies.

The apartments are eligible to purchase under the new London Help to Buy scheme which allows buyers to receive a Government equity loan of 40% with just a 5% deposit. Despite an affordable entry point, residents of Florian House will enjoy the high levels of construction and design associated with Fruition Properties and its developments.

Situated close to the centres of Muswell Hill, Whetstone and Southgate, the New Southgate area is a vibrant hub of activity and is easily accessible by both public transport and road. Arnos Grove tube (Piccadilly Line) and New Southgate rail station (First Capital Connect) are just minutes away, providing a direct 24 minute commute to both Moorgate and Kings Cross. Crossrail 2 is also being proposed to run through New Southgate, which will considerably improve commute times as well as investment within the area.

Mani Khirroya, Managing Director of Fruition Properties, said: "High specification new build homes are rare in this area and as a result, we expect interest to be high among potential purchasers. Our previous Observatory development in N11 saw an average 16% increase in unit value over the course of 18 months, meaning that Florian House is likely to be a prudent investment for the future. In addition, recent improvements in the Help to Buy scheme present a new kind of accessibility for first time buyers and we expect Florian House to be of particular interest."

Caroline Reid, Land and New Homes Sales Manager at Kinleigh Folkard & Hayward, said: "London's zone 4 is becoming increasingly tempting for buyers due to improved transport links and cheaper housing stock. New Southgate property prices are also on the up, making the area a great investment opportunity as well. Crossrail 2, if approved, will reduce journey times considerably to Central London and capital growth will outperform other areas."

Apartments at Florian House are due to complete in Spring 2016. Remaining apartment prices range from £445,000 to £555,000.

CONDITIONS OF ACCEPTANCE FOR ALL ADVERTISEMENTS

Orders are accepted by the Publishers subject to the Standard Conditions agreed between the Newspaper Society and the Institute of Practitioners in Advertising. Save that:

- Advertisements are accepted on the conditions that (a) descriptions relating to goods are accurate and in no way contravene the provisions of the Trade Descriptions Act 1968, and the Fair Trading Act 1973, and (b) the copy complies with the British Code of Advertising Practice. Advertisements offering credit or hire facilities must conform to the Consumer Credit (Advertisements) Regulations 1980.
- 'Classified' Advertisers offering goods or service of a business, commercial or trade nature will, at the discretion of the Publishers, be deemed 'Trade Advertisers', and as such, must include their names in advertisements. A telephone number is an optional addition to these requirements and not an alternative.
- To comply with the Business Advertisements (Disclosure) Order 1977, Trade Advertisers must make it clear that they are selling goods in the course of business either by content, format, size or place of the advertisement or by including words such as 'trade', 'dealer', 'agent', 'wholesaler', '(T)' etc. in the advertisement.
- The Publishers accept no liability whatsoever for any loss or damage however caused arising out of:
  - Any error, inaccuracy or omission in the printing or publishing of any advertisement;
  - Any failure to publish an advertisement on the day / date or day / dates specified by the advertiser; or
  - Any delay in forwarding or omission to forward replies to box numbers to the Advertiser.
- The Publishers will endeavour to publish advertisements on the day / date or day / dates specified by the Advertiser but insertion days / dates cannot be guaranteed.
- Where shrinkage of advertisement occurs for whatever reasons the advertisement will be charged to the nearest full centimetre. This will NOT apply to the full-page advertisements, which remain full pages even after shrinkage.
- The Publishers reserve the right to reject an advertisement or to vary it in any way they deem fit, at any time before publication, whether or not the advertisement has already been accepted for publication.
- Whilst every effort is made to minimise errors in advertisements, mistakes do sometimes occur. Advertisers or their agents should therefore check their advertisements and inform us of any errors immediately. Responsibility cannot be accepted for more than one incorrect insertion. Typographical or minor changes, which do not affect the value of the advertisement, do not qualify for republication or allowances.
- All gross advertising rates (except classified lineage and semi-display) are subject to and include a 0.1% Advertising Standards Board of Finance surcharge, payable by the advertisers to help finance the self-regulatory control system administered by the Advertising Standards Authority.
- All rates quoted are subject to VAT at the rate currently in force at the time the advertisement appears.
- Should the rate for advertisements be altered the price for remaining insertions shall be revised accordingly or the publishers shall have the right to cancel the unexpired portion of the order.
- The placing of an advertisement order will be deemed an acceptance of these conditions.
- Account facilities are granted at the discretion of the Company.
- All accounts must be settled within the terms agreed by the Company and the Customer.

(1) Should an advertiser be in breach of the agreed terms, the publisher shall be entitled to levy a 10% surcharge on the value of the whole debt in respect of accounts with terms of less than 30 days, and any discounts or commissions that had been allowed will be reclaimed.

(2) Regular monthly accounts that are in breach of the agreed terms will pay an interest rate of 6% above the current bank of England base rate for each month that the account is overdue and discounts or commissions that had been allowed will be reclaimed. Should Legal action be required the interest will be charged in accordance with the County Court Act 1984.

14. Where an advertiser instructs / appoints an advertising agent to act on their behalf, the advertiser will remain jointly and severally liable for payment in respect for an advertisement(s) should the appointed agent fail to pay. For the avoidance of doubt, the agent acts for the advertiser and not for the publisher with the agent being responsible for notifying the advertiser of this liability.

15. All queries must be notified, preferably in writing to the accounts department of the publisher within 7 days of the invoice date.

16. All digital services are maintained in partnership with the publishers' hosting service providers. Every effort is made to ensure the continuity of these services, but some occasional technical downtime beyond the publishers control may occur. The publisher and its associated companies shall be under no liability if the production and distribution of web services is delayed or prevented by any cause beyond the control of the publisher.

17. The Publisher may provide voucher copies for published advertisements in electronic form only subject to certain criteria. Further information is available on request.

18. The copyright of advertisements produced wholly or partially by the Publishers belong to the Publishers. Advertisers may not reproduce such advertisements without the Publishers' consent.

Box Numbers

Boxes are open for the receipt of bona fide answers and are not available for distribution of trade canvassing matter. Original testimonials, goods, cash, stamps or payments of any kind must not be enclosed. A box Number and postal address are charged as part of the advertisement, i.e. Box No., centre address. There is no charge for forwarding replies.

Box numbers alone are not available for use in 'Trade' advertisements, other than Employment and Business Opportunities.

Holiday & Travel Category

All advertising must contain the name of the advertiser, phone number alone are not permitted.

Data Protection

The service you have requested may require us to carry out a credit search at a credit-referencing agency, which will record the fact that a search has been made. We may need to share your information with other lenders and credit reference agencies. However, we will only use the information from these searches to make credit-granting decisions and, if necessary, for fraud prevention or tracing debtors.

Data controller will use your information for administration and analysis. We may share your information with other Tindle Group Newspaper companies or carefully selected third parties. We, or they, may send you details of other goods and services, which may be of interest to you. The information may be provided by letter, telephone or other reasonable means of communication. Calls may be recorded or monitored for training purposes.

Special conditions apply with regard to the advertising of adult services, which are outlined to all persons submitting such advertisements.

WIN GIVES BIG BOOST TO SPURS' TITLE BID

By Dominique Stafford

sport.enfield@nlhnews.co.uk

TOBY ALDERWEIRELD has warned his Tottenham Hotspur team-mates that they cannot afford to get carried away by their excellent form if they want to remain in contention to win the Premier League title this season.

Spurs' hugely impressive 2-1 victory at Manchester City on Sunday – their fifth win in a row in the league – saw them close to within two points of table-topping Leicester City after the leaders suffered a last-gasp defeat at the hands of Arsenal.

But Alderweireld, who has been a revelation since joining the club from Atletico Madrid in the summer and again shone at the heart of their defence over the weekend, is well aware that there is still a long way to go in the race for the title.

"We have to work hard and not dream too much, because if we dream too much we can fall down very quickly," he said. "We have to work hard like we did against City and see things game by game."

"It was a very big win for us, but we don't talk about the title. Our goal is to reach the Champions League spots, and I think we made a good step. There are still 12 games to play, so it is a long way. I am being 100 per cent honest – we don't talk about the title, because it is too far away."

"We feel if we work very hard, with everyone doing their job, that we can beat any team. It is not arrogance – we don't have arrogance, we just have confidence, and that is the difference."

"In the first half we played very well, then we played a little bit less well in the second half. But in every game this season we have had good organisation, and even when things are not going the way you want, you can fall back on that organisation and then try to go up front and make a goal like we did this time. We have a good team that sticks together, and that is important."

Following a blank first half at the Etihad Stadium, Spurs took the lead early in the second period courtesy of a Harry Kane penalty – awarded for a controversial handball decision against Raheem Sterling.

Kelechi Iheanacho got City back on level terms, but the visitors were not to be denied as Christian Eriksen scored the winner – much to the delight of left-back Danny Rose.

"This result shows that we've got great character and mentality," he said. "Our morale is superb and we've got a great manager."

"We're not scared of anyone and we've shown that. People are waiting for us to slip up somewhere, and the last two times we'd gone to City we'd conceded ten goals in total. But we went there to play and got a deserved three points."

"It was a massive result for us. We've got three more games before we play in the league again but long may this run continue."

"Mauricio Pochettino [head coach] has instilled a great work ethic – one that I've not experienced from any other manager. He wants you to work very hard in training and if you don't then he'll let you know. Once you work hard Monday to Friday then it will happen naturally in the game. Everything starts from training, everything on the pitch comes from training and how well we work."

Not getting carried away: Toby Alderweireld feels Spurs must keep their feet on the ground despite their fine form

McDonald grabs a hat-trick for Borough

ANTHONY MCDONALD scored a hat-trick as Haringey Borough eased to a 3-0 victory at Phoenix Sports in Ryman League Division One North on Saturday.

Borough, who seem to have firmly put their early season struggles behind them as they have come to terms with playing at the higher level, dominated the match for large spells to seal a win which saw them pull four points clear of the bottom three with multiple games in hand on all the sides around them.

It was McDonald who was the visitors' star performer and he ensured that it did not take long for their dominance to be rewarded on the scoresheet as he broke the deadlock after just seven minutes.

Borough continued to look the more threatening side and McDonald struck again on the stroke of half-time to put them in a strong position.

Phoenix Sports attempted to mount a comeback in the second period but were unable to break down the visitors' determined defence and Borough made sure of maximum points when McDonald completed his hat-trick with 14 minutes remaining.

Meanwhile, the continued problems with the playing surface at Haringey Borough's Coles Park ground have led to them switching their next two home matches to Tilbury FC.

The poor condition of the pitch at Coles Park, coupled with continual bad weather, has led to Borough being unable to play a home match since December 5 – leading to them facing a severe fixture pile-up, with 16 league games still to play before the season ends on April 23.

And, in order to alleviate their fixture congestion, Borough arranged to play both last night's scheduled match against Aveley and Sunday's encounter against table-topping AFC Sudbury (3pm) at Tilbury's Chadfields ground.

Pochettino: Fans are right to dream

HEAD coach Mauricio Pochettino believes that Tottenham Hotspur fans can start to dream of winning the Premier League title following their win at Manchester City on Sunday.

The 2-1 triumph saw Spurs close to within two points of table-topping Leicester City, and there is growing belief at White Hart Lane that they can be crowned champions for the first time since 1961.

"The supporters are right to dream of the title," he said. "They showed big support from the beginning of the season and I say thank you to them. It is important for our supporters to believe."

"It is a very important moment to share with our fans. They are always fantastic and you need to show and say thank you in different ways. This is the way that is most important for them to appreciate and show they are very important for us. Always in football the supporters are the most important thing."

"It was a very important victory and our players deserve full credit for the performance. Like always, you need to try and improve every day and we are now in a good position, but it is too early to talk about titles."

"Before the game people said it was a big test for us and it is important to show we can win. We are the youngest squad in the Premier League and it is important to start to feel that you can win in a stadium like Manchester City's against a big team."

"The players are a credit and it's a pleasure to work with this team. The character and mentality are fantastic. We can say that we have the quality, of course, but the mentality is amazing and we've improved in all aspects."
